Message from SAA President

Dear SAA Members and Friends,

The wait is finally over! After five months of staying at home, distancing and washing hands, it is BACK TO CLASS. The Fall 2020 Arts of Asia lecture series, Heroes and Villains in Asian Art and Culture, starts on August 21 via Zoom webinars. Thank you to all who have signed up already. For those who are still thinking of joining us, please realize how easy it is to join. You can attend the class from the comfort of your home without having to wait for BART or getting stuck on a bridge. All you need is a computer or device that lets you join the world of Zoom. And should you miss a lecture, you can view a video a few days later at your convenience.

If you have friends who do not live in the Bay Area and are lovers of Asian art and culture, please ask them to sign up as well. Wherever they live, just remind them that all programs are on Pacific Time. Please note there is NO drop in option; you must sign up for the entire series. As you can imagine, the registration process has a certain protocol, and that is the reason why we close registration at least one week before any event. Sorry about that!

And we are not stopping there. Please find additional Member Events scheduled for September and October as well as a Literature and Culture course in November. Keep in mind, with your attendance at our events and your continued membership in the SAA, we will be able to support the Asian Art Museum. Even though the museum is still closed, it needs our help now more than ever. Also, even though our office in the Museum is closed, our Office Manager, Susan Lai, is working from home and answering your inquiries via email or phone.

Thank you and stay safe!

Ehler Spiedt
President

LITERATURE & CULTURE COURSE FALL 2020

Our distinguished scholars explore some of the greatest stories in history, stories that still speak to us today, and the art they have inspired. Come look at historical figures, religious leaders, and characters in epics and great works of fiction. We will see how history is transformed in the Romances of Alexander the Great in Asia and the Japanese war epic, The Tale of Heike. Come witness the fights against demons by Tibet’s first Lama, Milarepa, and Rostam, the great hero of the Shahnameh. Who are the heroines behind the heroes: the woman who created Tale of Genji, and the real hero of the 1001 Nights, Shahrazad? We will contrast the roles of moving religious performances, including Krishna’s dance as divine play, and the powerful Shia passion play, the Ta’ziyeh of Hussein. We will explore how two powerful political leaders, King Sejong of Korea and Mao Zedong of China are depicted. Examine the challenges posed by heroes and villains in three epic novels of Chinese literature, The Three Kingdoms, Water Margin (Lords of the Marsh), and Jin Ping Mei (The Golden Lotus). Join us to learn about the different kinds of heroism in the Ramayana, and how Bali’s Rangda and Barong restore cosmic balance.

There is an optional reading list for those who would like to read the stories or about the heroes and villains featured in this course.

See the next page for the full schedule of speakers and topics and sign up today.

Drums and Rhythms of North and South Indian Music
With Jim Santi Owen

When:  Tuesday, September 8
Time:  10:30 a.m. - 12:00 p.m. Pacific Time
Place:  Online Webinar
Fee:  $15 per person Society members; $20 per person non-members
Advance registration must be received by the SAA by Sept. 1, 2020.

Join percussionist Jim Santi Owen, a senior faculty member of the Ali Akbar College of Music, in an online class exploring the drums and rhythms of North and South Indian classical music. With 30 years of experience as an educator and student/performer of North and South Indian classical music, Jim Santi Owen specializes in the North Indian Tabla and South Indian Kanjira, Thavil, Ghatam, Morsing, and Mridangam. Attendees will experience live demonstrations of each of these percussion instruments, curated videos of master Indian artists, and participatory lessons in the rhythms of North and South India through the onomatopoeic rhythmic syllables used in the teaching and performing traditions of Indian percussion. No prior musical experience necessary.

Jim Santi Owen is an American percussionist, educator, performer, composer, and producer based in the San Francisco Bay Area. Drumming since the age of eight, he has devoted over 30 years to the study of the classical percussion traditions of North and South India with tabla maestro Pandit Swapan Chaudhuri and South Indian master percussionists, T.H. Subash Chandran and K. Sekar. Owen studied Jazz with Charlie Haden, James Newton, and Tootie Heath and African drumming and dance from the Ladzekpo Brothers and Dr, Kofi Gbolonyo. A dedicated teacher, Owen is on faculty at the Ali Akbar College of Music, Dominican University, the California Jazz Conservatory, and LINES Ballet and travels around the world teaching master classes for adults and youth. His work as a composer and producer can be found in Facebook’s Sound Collection.

The Pre-History of Illustrating the Bhagavata Purana and Its Continuation in Later Times
With Daniel Ehnbom

When:  Tuesday, September 22
Time:  10:30 a.m. - 12:00 p.m. Pacific Time
Place:  Online Webinar
Fee:  $15 per person Society members; $20 per person non-members
Advance registration must be received by the SAA by Sept. 15, 2020.

The Prehistory of Illustrating the Bhagavata Purana and Its Continuation in Later Times

It seems obvious that a text cannot be illustrated before it is composed, but as it so often does India provides exceptions. Notable among these is the Bhagavata Purana, composed (in South India?) around the end of the 1st millennium of the Common Era. When illustrated versions of the text finally merge in the 16th century, they draw on and elaborate a rich visual tradition preserved in stone that well predates the composition of the text itself and continues into the modern period.

Daniel Ehnbom received his PhD From the University of Chicago. In the last few years, he was Adjunct Curator of Asian Art at the University of Virginia Art Museum and was formerly Director of the UVA Center for South Asian Studies. He is the author of numerous books and articles including Indian Miniatures: The Ehrenfeld Collection and The Realms of Earth and Sky: Indian Painting from the 15th to the 19th Century. He retired from the McIntire Department of Art in May 2020.
Healing Visions of the Heart Sutra: The Buddhist Art of Iwasaki Tsuneo
With Paula Arai

When:  Tuesday, October 13
Time:  10:30 a.m. - 12:00 p.m. Pacific Time
Place:  Online Webinar
Fee:  $15 per person Society members; $20 per person non-members
Advance registration must be received by the SAA by Oct. 6, 2020.

Japanese biologist and visionary artist Iwasaki Tsuneo (1917-2002) created a scientifically informed visual commentary of core Mahāyāna Buddhist teachings on form and emptiness. Resonances he observed between scientific and Buddhist views of reality—interdependence, impermanence, and the fluid nature of phenomena—inspired him to painstakingly shape images with miniature calligraphy of the Chinese characters of the Heart Sutra. This enigmatic, concise, and profound scripture is treasured for its expression of wisdom and compassion. The subjects of his paintings range from classical Buddhist iconography to ephemeral beauties of nature and microscopic and telescopic wonders. This immersive slide presentation of exquisite art will be animated by stories about the artist’s life and motivations and laced with poetic interpretations of insights embedded in the paintings.

Paula Arai received her Ph.D. in Buddhist Studies from Harvard University, specializing in Japanese Sōtō Zen. She is author of Painting Enlightenment: Healing Visions of the Heart Sutra—The Buddhist Art of Iwasaki Tsuneo (Shambhala Publications), Women Living Zen: Japanese Buddhist Nuns (Oxford University Press), and Bringing Zen Home: The Healing Heart of Japanese Buddhist Women’s Rituals (University of Hawai‘i Press). She currently holds the Urmila Gopal Singhal Professorship in Religions of India at Louisiana State University.

Bowers of Love: Krishna Worship, Garden Design and Climate Change in 18th Century Braj
With Sugata Ray

When:  Thursday, October 22
Time:  10:30 a.m. - 12:00 p.m. Pacific Time
Place:  Online Webinar
Fee:  $15 per person Society members; $20 per person non-members
Advance registration must be received by the SAA by Oct. 15, 2020.

In the 18th century, vast tracts of forested lands were reclaimed for human habitation in Braj, the pilgrimage center in north India where the divine Krishna is believed to have spent his youth. How did the theology of Krishna worship—one that visualized Braj as a kunja or the primeval bower where Krishna and Radha dally eternally—contend with such a sweeping alteration of the pilgrimage center’s precarious ecology? By way of addressing this question, this talk focuses on the emergence of enclosed gardens in Braj in a time of drastic deforestation. This new garden form, as Dr. Ray will show, allowed devotees to simulate Radha’s journey through the dense jasmine groves of liturgical poetry while creating an appearance of deep wilderness within an urban milieu. Represented in paintings and simulated in architecture, the gardens or kunjas of Braj then brings to the fore a vegetal aesthetics that performatively entangled philosophical, symbolic, and aesthetic perceptions of an imagined natural environment.

Sugata Ray is Associate Professor of South and Southeast Asian art and architecture in the History of Art Department and the Department of South & Southeast Asian Studies at the University of California, Berkeley. His research and writing focus on climate change and the visual arts from the 1500s onwards. Ray is the author of Climate Change and the Art of Devotion: Geoaesthetics in the Land of Krishna, 1550–1850 (2019); Water Histories of South Asia: The Materiality of Liqueescence (2019, co-edited with Venugopal Maddipati); and Ecologies, Aesthetics, and Histories of Art (forthcoming, co-edited with Gerhard Wolf and Hannah Baader).

Donations for Book Sale

Due to COVID-19 restrictions, our annual Book Sale was postponed. We ask that you hold onto your book donations until the museum reopens later this year. If you are moving or downsizing and have a lot of books, we are happy to pick them up from your home within the San Francisco Bay Area. We accept books with Asian subjects only, be it art, culture, novels, history, travel, cooking, exhibition catalogues or others. If you have any questions, please contact the SAA office at (415) 581-3701 or info@societyforasianart.org. Thank you.
Read the Spring 2020 Issue Online

This issue features two articles on topics that may be new to many SAA readers. The first article, by Dr. Mitra Ara of San Francisco State University, surveys the Mandaeans, an ancient religion of the Near East that has survived to this day. Did you know that John the Baptist was a Mandaean? The second article is by Dr. Mariachiara Gasparini (soon to be teaching at the University of Oregon), who follows her fall 2019 article about textiles on the Silk Road, with an examination of Chinese textiles and trade goods that came to the missions of Alta California through the Spanish maritime trade routes via Manila and Mexico.
